The Synod:

1656 [7] Feb 4. Massachusetts letter requesting New Haven to send elders to a synod at Boston, the beginning of June next, was before the court. Massachusetts G. Court said the object was to resolve a number of questions sent by Connecticut.

New Haven G. Court declined to send elders; and wrote a letter to Massachusetts, giving several reasons for not complying. They censured the petitioners in Connecticut, & the G. Court of Conn for listening to them, & desiring advice of Massachusetts. Mr Rewson wrote to New Haven Oct. 22. 1656, and it was received Nov. 27/28. Not answered until now. "We hear the petitioners or others closing with them are very confident they shall obtain great alterations both in civil government and in church discipline, & that some of them have procured or hired one as their agent to maintain in writing (as is conceived) that parishes in England consenting to and continuing their meetings to worship God are true Churches; and such persons coming over hither (without holding forth any work of faith, &c) have right to all church privileges. And probably they expect their deputy should employ himself and improve his interest to spread & press such paradoxes in the Massachusetts, yea at the synod or meeting."

They say "their elders have perused the twenty one questions" (sent by Connecticut to Massachusetts apparently) and have drawn up an answer, to be sent to the Bay.

[Plainfield ordered to be settled in 1689 by Trumbull.

*: Probably Woburn

Plainfield.

Mr David Rowland was ordained March 7 1748. though a majority of the inhabitants were opposed including Separatists, But a town meeting had given him a call by a majority. They refused to vote his salary but it was recovered by law. Some years after, town freed 1/3 from ministerial taxes. Committee reported, & Genl court set off more than 1/3 as a separate society, on certain conditions. Most of the people inclined to the congregational or separate church. They finally that is, the old society settled a minister who had been a separate; ordained by some ministers from Mans and Con. Feb. 3. 1769. He and the ministers of this new church were supported by contributions and not by taxes. Mr. Rowland was dismissed and several persons preached there, before Mr John Fuller was ordained, Feb 3. 1769.

The Separate church, was organized on the Congregational platform. They ordained Thomas Stevens Jr Sept 11. 1746: That is, Deac. Marsh & Thomas Dimmon from Mansfield, and Solomon Paine from Canterbury ordained him for them. They were a conscientious people & Mr Stevens a good preacher. He went as chaplain in 1755, was taken sick, & returned and died at his father's house in Plainfield and was buried Thanksgiving day 1755. After this they united with the Separate church in Voluntown, & Alexander Miller, the minister of Voluntown separates, became the minister of Plainfield separate church also.

Indians. Aged men thought there were 100 fighting men since he could remember. They had good fishing, & good land for corn. They were peaceable. Only a few families now in town. They have dwindled away; have not removed to other places. Were addicted to drunkenness. Some converted & reformed in the great Stir. Some live in Killingly.

This from Mr Douglass of Plainfield May 8. 1770. [Mr Fuller & Mr Miller seemed to be ministers in 1770.

They allude to the difference between Massachusetts & Connecticut about the government of this place [not named] whereby they are deprived of protection from either. There were distractions among themselves. Purchase amounted to £30.4.8. paid by Edward Hopkins. He certified April 16. 1651. that he had received that sum of the inhabitants of Easthampton.

The preceding documents were copied at length by John Lyon Gardiner, for Rev. Benj. Trumbull. Sept. 5. 1799.

Easthampton. L. I. from J. L. Gardiner. 1799.

It united with Connecticut, he says in 1657, & was before separate: remaind until 1664. Southampton united about 1644. Easthampton sent Baker, Bond & Gilford & others as delegates to Hartford. The town was settled from Lynn & towns eastward of Boston; many originally from Kent, England. They first named the town Maidstone. They traded and did all their business in Boston till within 30 or 40 years. They obtained laws from Connecticut about 1650, but attended them to suit their condition and views. Their government was republican. They had two magistrates, one secretary and a constable annually chosen by the people. Mr Thomas James, first minister was settled as early as 1650: Mr Nathaniel Huntting in 1696. Mr Samuel Buell in 1745 and died July 19. 1798. Rev. Mr Beecher is now the minister (Sept 4. 1799.) Town has had for 100 yrs from 1200 to 1400 inhabitant. About one in 100 die yearly. Formerly epidemics prevailed, especially among the young. "Since the Indian-hedges have died, about 30 years since, (a great loss to the farmers) it has been more healthy. About 70 years since the sweating sickness carried off many

About 100 Indians remain of the Montauk tribe living at Montauk point in E. H. not all pure blood. "The Montaukers were a part of the Mohegan tribe and the Block Islanders a part of the Narraganset tribe". These had wars with each other & many Montaukers were killed about the time after the English settled here.

Gardiners Island.

James Farrett of Long Island, deputy to the earl of Sterling, grants to Lion Gardiner March 10. 1639. "that island which he hath now in possession called by the Indians Manchonack [or Manehonack] and by the English Isle of Wight." Gardiner had before purchased of the Indians. Gardiner was to pay a yearly acknowledgment of five pounds to the earl of Sterling.

Witnesses Folk Davis
Benjamin Price

When the Indians sold, "they probably retained a right to hunt & fish & plant, which was all they wanted."

The quit-rent of 5 £ has been paid to the present time except 6 years during the war. Above 2000 dollars have been paid by the Gardiner family in quit rents. Quit-rents are now abolished by the legislature. John Lyon Gardiner is the 7th generation, calling Lyon Gardiner the first. He is the 6th oldest son that has owned the Island.

Manchonock is pronounced by the Indians Mashong-o-nog. Which signifies a place where many people have died. The Indians say this refers to the distemper that killed most of the Indians just before the whites came.

con. 11 Lion Gardiner recorded on a leaf of his bible, that he and his wife Mary came from Woerdon, in Holland, July 10. 1635. His wife was the daughter of Derike Williamson dorocant: her mother's name Hachin Gastions. (He gives other names of the family. They went from Woerdon to London & thence to New England & dwelt at Saybrook fort, four years. He commanded the fort. My son David was born in that place April 29. 1635, the first born there; Daughter Mary was born Aug. 30. 1638. We then went to an Island which I bought of the Indians, called by them Manchonaka, by us the Isle of Wight. Daughter Elizabeth was born there Sept 14. 1641, the first English child born there.

Gardiner's Island.

1 Lion Gardiner died at Easthampton about 1663.
2 David Gardiner his oldest son died at Hartford about 1689 (aged about 53
3 John Gardiner distinguished David, died at St. London, aged 78.
4 David Gardiner, distinguished John died on G. Island aged 60.

7 John Lyon Gardiner " " of David. Living 1799. aged 29.

J. L. G. says that John David Gardiner could not have been born April 29. 1635 at Say brook, and he thinks the date should be 1636.

Lyon Gardiner is called the Lieutenant in the records of E. H. David Gardiner was at Hartford on business for the inhabitants of the eastern part of the Island; they wished to be again united to Connecticut. Lyon G. is said to have been a Scotchman [doubtful.]

Gardiner's Island contains 3000 acres of fertile land; feeds in summer 400 head of cattle & horses and about 2000 sheep. Principal produce is beef, cheese, wheat.

all this from John L. G. 1799.

Thomas Scott. Mr Savage says Thomas Scott died at Stamford in 1657. He came over with his father Thomas in 1635 aged 16 years. His father lived at Ipswich (See Farmer). Thomas the son, lived in Stamford in 1654; he married Margaret, dau of Wm. Hubbard & sister of the Historian. Wm H. st in his will 1684 mentions Thomas Scott as of Stamford. I did not find him in Stamford records — He had a son Thomas. His widow married Nicholas Rogers, son of Rev. Nathaniel & bore him a large family.

Of the same date he gives a statement of what his son in law John Selleck had had for a portion with his daughter Sarah. viz a house & lot 120£. 5 Cows 10£. 1 horse 10£

By a writing dated Dec 10. 1686. Richard Law refers to make the shares of his daughters equal to that of his son Jonathan, which he values at 300 pounds.

14 Indians Feb 8. 1702-3 sold lands at Wiantinoque to peons of Milford, having woodbury E. and a line extended N. & S. Mohuten W. Wemeseag a small brook running into the great river N. W. upon said brook north line to run E. to line first mentioned, Danbury S. W. Woodbury S. E. Called also Wiantenoge. Indians reserved their planting field and the privilege of fishing at the falls. Consideration 60£ in money 10£ goods -80£ in all. A rough plan on the book. Seems not the first deed or purchase

A deed from Indians dated Feb 29. 1700 (and a deed dated Feb 23. 1702 (are noticed in town proceedings as the land to which each was to pay his share & have their share. Not certain that New Milford is intended. That purchase is noticed separately in 1702. Every inhabitant had a right to come in for a share of Wiantinoque provided he paid equal charges. A meeting noticed on the subject June 5. 1702

Feb 2 1702 3. Then is a vote that all inhabitants may have a share of land at Wiantinoque "that is now to be purchased" all to send in their names that wish to be purchasers. Committee chosen to purchase.

P.S. The Indian deed of Feb 29. 1700 (is on record. The land it conveys lies in the N. part of Milford - a mile & 1 rod broad from E. to W. having N. Haven line E. Bladens brook S. & Indian land or Derby line W. Consideration 15£ in pay & 15£ in silver. Bladens Brook N.

The other deed dated Feb 23. 1702 (conveys land in the same region, adjoining N. Haven & Derby - seems N. of the others.

The Indians were Gemokapatany, Nahauntawa, Pewitcheag, Carrott, Rocoks, Wagquash, Dugin Rasquenet, Warrorunton, Pequit, Suckatash, &c

Milford

1700 March 4. Town voted that all over 21, allowed inhebetank of the town & freeholders shall have liberty to pay the purchase of the land which the committee bought of the Indians, & shall have an equal share [New Milford?]

Connecticut Tour in 1849 — continued from a few leaves forward.

New York. I reached there on Saturday Nov. 24, in evening. Found Hopkins, Judd, Edwards, & Walker, the latter had been there only a day or two. The next day, Sunday, we attended the meeting of Mr. Chapin (a sort of Universalist, a man of talent) and then met Arethusa. We dined with Judd, Edwards, & heard Doct. Mason P.M. At evening, J.W.D. went over to Brooklyn with Arethusa and I took tea with her at Mr Grays'. Called at Rev. Mr. Storrs, & walked about the village some. Returned to N.Y. I spent most of Monday & Tuesday in the library of the Historical Society, [illegible] the city, west of 715 Broadway, in the University by Washington Place. I lodged in the 5th story of a great hotel or house of entertainment at 37½ cents a night, & got some meals at eating houses and two with Hopkins, and went without some. (Two meals a day is very common with me) I did not spend much time in looking at the wonders of New York. My sons paid much of my expenses.

Nov 27. Tuesday. Left N. York at 4 P.M. on the rail road and reached Greenwich in less than 2 hours. Staid there over night. The village is about a mile N. of the depot. This is old Horseneck. South of it & of the depot the sound sets up & forms a bay and on the E. side of it are wharves, and a vessel or two. Byram river between Greenwich & Rye has a settlement & harbor called Port Chester, on the N.Y. side. Greenwich is large township, & is said to be a good farming town. It is all fenced with stone walls, and those are built of rather large stones, & the walls are high & heavy when I saw them. Many stones seemed silunitic granite. They send potatoes and milk to New York. The land seems to be strong, & after stone walls are made, is not very rough. Some fine smooth lots are seen, & some ledges of rocks but the latter are much the most plenty near the coast. Timber here, as every where, is oak, chesnut walnut. Some red maples, & sometimes of other species. Red cedars are the only evergreens. Elms are shade trees and some others. Places with stand a mud hole.

Nov 28, Wednesday. I left Greenwich at about 12½ and reached Milford in about 2 hours. In the eastern part of Greenwich is Myanos river and Cross-Lob Landing. The river is navigable above the rail road, & there is a draw for vessels. I saw not much of a village. The old parish is said to be east of Myanos — Geese are seen in all these towns; and crows seem to abound in some of them — There is much rail fence between Fairfield and Milford, and some light land, but not sandy plain. The western part of Milford is of this description, but near the village stone fences and stronger land appear. It is a pretty good farming town, and has much salt marsh. There is a harbor on the river, or on the bay below it, when river & bay are one. Not a place of business. Some shingle houses are here. Geese are here. In the public house when I staid there was smoking, drinking and playing at dominoes. Yet the people in general are industrious, moral, staid people. I kept Thanksgiving at Milford, & heard Rev. Mr Brace preach. Was at his house several times to take minutes from the church records.

Tuesday Evening Nov. 30. I came to Newhaven to the comfortable quarters I had left.

Saturday, was in Town Clerk's office, &c.

Sunday Dec. 2. Went to Mr. Dutton's meeting A.M. and P.M. He not there.

Saturday Dec. 29. Came home. See last page.

Connecticut Tour

I came to New Haven, Nov. 8, 1849. Started at 7 A.M. & arrived at 10 P.M. Remained 2½ hours at Springfield. Only 3½ hours in the cars. Cloudy day and some showers. Thunder and lightning in the evening, and much rain in the night.

Mr. E. C. Herrick, Librarian of Yale College, introduced me to the public officers, and was very kind. I spent the evening in the college library.

The belittling, or diminishing of the size, of every thing by the side of the Rail Road, before noticed, was very obvious to day. Whether this is the effect of the glass windows in the cars, of the swift passing, or of my own defective vision, I do not know. I think it cannot be the latter.

Below Hartford, I noticed very few evergreens. Indeed, there is but little timber of any kind. The most common trees are Oak, Walnut, maple, chesnut, elm, &c. A few beech trees are seen. Some leaves adhere to oak & beech trees - all brown. White oak is the most common tree. There are some red cedars near the rail road, and a few pines are seen on Wallingford sandy plains.

Trees are all bare in New Haven, but grass is green, & some flowers are seen in gardens.

Friday 9. Day mostly cloudy and rain in the evening and night. Wind still in the N.E. I was in Town Clerk's office by day and in college library in evening.

Saturday 10. Day mostly cloudy, but some fair spells. Some rain in evening & night. In Town Clerk's office. I wrote home to wife and daughters.

Sunday 11. Some diarrhoea to day. Did not go to meeting A.M. Went to Mr. Dutton's P.M. A trifle of rain, and mostly cloudy. Wind changed to N.W.

Monday 12. Rode in stage 8 only miles to Derby, passing through the town of Orange. The first half of the way was rough, stony land with but few houses. The land was better the last half, in Orange & Derby & some good farms. Some fine hill slopes. But few large trees the whole distance, but considerable brush and small trees. Many stone walls for fences and many old fences of chesnut rails. Oak and chesnut were the principal trees; there were also birch, red & hard maple, hornbeam, buttenut, walnut, and others. Laurel grows on the poor rough land. The only evergreen trees are red cedars & these small.

Derby. 12. 13. Put up at a rum tavern from necessity being near the Town Clerk's office. They meant to treat me well but were not much refined. I fared very well.

It was the Naugatuck River Meadows that attracted settlers to Derby; there are no intervals worth naming on the Housatonnuck. When these two rivers unite there is a broad opening of water, and low land; the latter between the rivers & most partly under water; and there is an island of a few acres. Below this broad place the river becomes quite narrow, the rough hills coming near it. Sometimes called the Narrows, and the street above it - and to be called the Narrows, though by the
p. 846. side of the broad opening, mostly. The wharves to which vessels come & just above the narrows, below the junction of the two rivers, and near here was the old ferry across the stream from time immemorial. There is now a bridge over the Naugatuck & another across the Housatonnuck, above the junction of these streams, the latter some distance above. These are of recent date. Above the junction the high lands seem to approach near the Housatonnuck are rocky and rough, and very little level land is seen. Opposite the lower part of Derby, above the narrows, the land is more sloping on the west side (in old Repton, now Huntington,) and a few decent farms are seen, and there is a narrow flat by the river. I could hear the geese squall on that side of the river, and that were fields of green rye there, as on the road from New Haven Rye is much forwarder here than in Hampton, seems almost ankle high, & presents a rich green appearance — I found houses shingled on the sides, and geese in the highways, in all the towns west of New Haven.

The first settlers of Derby located themselves on a street running from the Narrows up the eastern side of the Naugatuck, having the river & meadows westerly from them and a high hill east of them, but more high & steep in the lower part than farther north. The home lots had a little level land, but not a great deal. The interval or flat land on the Naugatuck extends up the river about ½ a mile, when high land seems to cut it off, and it is not over 60 rods wide I think, or from 40 to 80 rods. At least, this is all that meets the eye. The village Ansonia is at the N. part of this interval, and on adjoining high land. Has grown up recently. The village called Birmingham is on the point of land between the Naugatuck & the Housatonnuck, the manufacturing shops on the lower land, the dwellings on higher land 30 or 40 feet above the river. This village began about 17 years ago. Previously there was only one farm house there. The Naugatuck interval has a steep bank ~~both sides~~ on both sides of considerable height, and on the east side, back of the houses, there is a high hill, from 200 to 300 feet high, I judge.

Tuesday 13. Towards night, I took the cars at Derby and was soon at Stratford. The railroad runs down near the Housatonnuck on the east side & crosses the river a little above the old bridge. For some distance on the east side the land below Derby is hilly, rocky and broken near the river, & here I saw many hemlocks, a tree which I had not before seen in Connecticut. Below the narrows, the land becomes better on the west side & decent farms show themselves down down, the land becomes low & rather level, and houses appear on both sides.

There is no public house at Stratford, and I put up at a very good private house on the main street. This street runs ~~from~~ North & South, perhaps two miles, and is of good width & pleasant, and the houses white, but not many elegant ones. Many houses are shingled on the sides. There are the streets shorter than the main one. Geese are in all the streets, and their noise is almost incessant. There is much good land in Stratford, and the people must be sustained in a great degree by farming. I walked down to the beginning of the Point, so called, & there is much good land there. The Point contains a ledge quantity of land, some thousands of acres I suppose, including a great deal of salt meadow mowing, and there is a sandy beach for miles about the salt marsh, where people go for clams. I crossed easterly to the bank of the Housatonnuc, which is here rather a broad bay than a river. The oyster boats were out on the flats. Above I could see wharves and one or two vessels. This is Stratford Harbor. — The fences in Stratford are Chestnut rails, but they can never be renewed. Some stone walls north of Rail road. In Derby fences were of stone, & of chestnut rails. Shade trees in Stratford are button wood & elm, & recently some maples. A few willows.

Friday Morning. Rode in cars through Bridgport to Fairfield. Spent forenoon in office of Town Clerk of F. Walked P.M. about 4 miles N. to Greenfield Society. Spent about 4½ days (excluding Sunday) in Office of the Judge of Probate, and at house of Mr. Nicholls with Probate Books. Spent eve. with Mr. Nicholls.

Greenfield is a fine village place, with a view of the Sound & Long Island shore near 50 miles. The land is pretty good, and is enclosed by stone walls in every direction. There are fine grassy slopes to be seen all about, & no very steep hills. Few or no rail fences. The stones are many of them Gallish seem to be a kind of granite & mica slate. Apple trees & other trees seem thrifty. Fields are generally right angled, or near it. I have never seen so much stone wall in a place

Sunday 18. was a cloudy, windy day. Wind S.E.
Monday 19 } N.E wind & some rain.
Tuesday 20 }
Wednesday 21. A fine pleasant day.

one thorny locust, I notice. The forest trees (of what few are seen) are oak, walnut, &c Wood here is 5 or 6 dollars a cord. Coal is are used in the villages, but not much by farmers on their farms. The only evergreens seen are red cedars, except a few firs about one or two houses
The box appears in garden borders, and forms many of hedges about some houses 6 or 8 feet high. It has a fine appearance now when other green has gone from trees.
Crows are heard & seen at Greenfield & Fairfield.
Geese are plenty here. Many shingled houses.

Thursday A.M. Nov. 22. I walked down to Fairfield. Spent that day and evening & part of the next forenoon in Town Clerks office.
There are some fine houses in Fairfield, recently built by men from N. York & others. Two or three have projections or porches in front, two stories high, or as high as the main building & make a very good appearance. There is a monstrous building for a hotel. Much of the village is composed of plain houses and a few are shingled on the sides. There is a good deal of good land in the vicinity of the village, & more remote — on Mill river, &c. Mill River goes into Sound at South Port west of the village which is the port of Fairfield. Black Rock another harbor is E. of Fairfield village. Pasco river is west of Mill river. There is salt marsh about these streams & elsewhere. There is good land south of the village, but the Sound is at no great distance and the quantity is far less than at Stratford Point or south of Stratford village. Fences in about Fairfield are of chesnut rails, and stone walls. Some red cedar poles are seen. Cedar is on the rocky places north of the village, but no other evergreen. Shade trees are chiefly elm & button wood; some maples and a few willows. Geese are in Fairfield streets.

M.A. 4.240 See above

Nov 23.
Friday A.M. Went on Rail Road to Stamford — crossed the Stream &c. a mile below the main village in Norwalk Stone walls and much good land are seen to Norwalk — many red cedars, generally small.
Salt marsh on the streams.

The soil in Fairfield and west of it, or rather the subsoil contains much gravel & abundance of small pebbles, but it is rich when sandy, makes hard roads and rail road. The pebbles show themselves on the sides of the rail road excavations. West of Norwalk, the land through which the rail road passes is not inviting – more rough, stony and uncultivated than east of Norwalk. Fences of stones, & the stones are smaller and more round than elsewhere. Abundance of small red cedars. They start up on some lands like pines on the Northampton plains, especially when there are rocks & stones. Old Lombardy poplars are seen.

Stamford is not inviting in its first appearance It is on level land, rather low, & has higher lands around it, though none very high. No salt water to be seen – is some distance from the port or harbor. It has some good buildings and is a place of more business than those east of it, till you come to Bridgeport.

Saturday Nov 24. P.M. I came to New York from Stamford in about 2 hours – called 36 miles passed nearer the coast than the old stage road. The Sound was often in sight. This region is rough and rocky most of the way – more so than that east of Stamford, and the most rocky of the whole was Harlem, on the Island which includes New York. Yet there are many green spots and some good farms in this 36 miles, but the best land is farther north than the rail road, and the old villages are north. Red cedars are abundant among the rocks all the way. Fences a wall of stones – which are more fled than those between Norwalk & Stamford Forest trees all the way from Fairfield to N York island seem to be principally oak and chestnut, and next maple, birch, and some butternut, walnut, elm, – mostly small. The cedars are generally small, mere bushes. Some are taller. They grow among the rocks on York Island.
